

SEND Primary Work Group

Overview:

The SEND primary Work Group will help you to gain an understanding of how children develop number sense and consider strategies to support those pupils who struggle. Participants will be encouraged to explore a range of approaches and resources. The pedagogy introduced, and any resources trialled, would support the principles of Teaching for Mastery.

The Work Group will provide an understanding of some of the barriers that affect maths learning, including maths anxiety. The course will include input from an Educational Psychologist on cognitive function and working memory and how these impact on maths learning.
